Nursery's 'grand' gesture gives a boost to hospital Special Care Baby Unit

A SPECIAL hospital ward that helps to nurse poorly newborn babies back to health has been given a 'grand' boost in the shape of a cheque for £1,000.

The money was presented to Ormskirk's Special Care Baby Unit by staff and grateful parents from the Kinderworld nursery in Southport.

It was raised via a variety of fundraising activities, including a summer fayre, Christmas plays and raffles.

A spokesperson for the nursery said: "Some of our parents have benefited from the wonderful care and support their babies and themselves have received in the unit.

"We hope that this donation will in some way help to continue the excellent service they provide".

WOMAN WHO 'INVENTED' CHILD JAILED

By Court Reporter

Thief who stole from Ormskirk vet lied about having a toddler to avoid custodial sentence

A WOMAN who lied about having a young child to try to avoid a jail sentence has finally ended up behind bars.

Emma Harris spun the yarn about having a two–year–old when interviewed for a probation report after conning her way into a job as a veterinary nurse at Barn Lodge Veterinary Hospital in Ormskirk in 2010 and stealing £1,413 from her employer.

She was intially given a suspended jail sentence but unluckily for her the vet was in the public gallery and he later told police that she had never mentioned having a child.

Harris, who had moved to Dorset, was tracked down and admitted not having a child "but suggested she believed she had a child due to her mental state and the fact of a miscarriage in the past," said Paul Treble, prosecuting.

Despite being rumbled she again moved home and tricked another vet in Derbyshire into giving her job, for which she received a community order last year.

Meanwhile, she denied having tried to trick the court about her child and was due for trial but on the day it was to begin she finally pleaded guilty to attempting to pervert the course of justice in September 2011.

Liverpool Crown Court heard that despite her plea, 25–year–old Harris was still claiming she had believed she had a toddler.

Jailing Harris – who sat weeping in the dock – for nine months, Judge Robert Trevor–Jones said: "You claim you were drawn into some genuine fantasy of motherhood which you stated to the probation report author and you have admitted little remorse about the falsity of your claim.

"It is even more clear now than in September 2011 that you do have a deep persistent streak of dishonesty and dishonesty which you used to your advantage when necessary."

He told her: "Offences of perverting the course of justice invariably cross the custody threshold because their very nature strikes at the root of public justice."

These routes are made for walking!

Report by Louisa Austin

Festival offers options to suit all tastes and abilities

THE West Lancashire Walking Festival, supported by VISIT Sefton and West Lancashire, gets underway this week offering residents the chance to enjoy the borough's flora and fauna.

All the walks are free and there are options to suit all abilities, from short, themed and informative walks to long–distance rambles.

Walkers are advised to wear sturdy footwear and clothing to suit the weather conditions on the day.

Councillor David Sudworth, West Lancs Council's portfolio holder for health and leisure, said: "We have some beautiful countryside in West Lancashire and the walking festival is a great time to go out and explore it."

The first walk is on Thursday, August 1 at Coronation Park, Ormskirk, offering the opportuniy to find out more about bats. The two–mile walk starts from the bowling pavilion at 8pm.

Close encounter

Walks around Martin Mere are planned for Friday, August 2 and Friday, August 9.

Both are two miles long and start from Burscough Bridge station at 10am.

Dogs are not allowed on the Martin Mere walks, but are welcome on the other walks.

Nature lovers wanting a close encounter with butterflies should make their way to the Beacon Country Park Ranger Station at midday on Saturday, August 3.

And on Tuesday, August 6 a six–mile Ormskirk circular walk will start from the Coronation Park bowling pavilion at 10am.

There will also be an eight–mile Skelmersdale circular walk starting from Skelmersdale library on Monday, August 12 at 10am.

A nine–mile tour around Fairy Glen in Parbold is planned for Thursday, August 8. Walkers should meet at the layby on the A5209 (Parbold Hill) close to the Fairy Glen entrance at 10am.

Walks are planned for every day up to and including Wednesday, August 14, when the final event is a four–mile trip around Beacon Country Park starting from the Ranger Station at 2pm.

This offers walkers the chance to find out more about medieval boundaries in the park, some of which date back to the Domesday Book.

For a full list of festival walks visit the website www.westlancs.gov.uk/walks.

You can also contact the council's rangers on 01695 622794 or email beacon.park@westlancs.gov.uk.

Labour slams plan to charge for replacement bins

Report by Henry James

A PROPOSAL by West Lancs Council to start charging for the replacement of wheelie bins and recycling boxes in an attempt to bridge a budget gap of £665,000 for 2014/15 has been criticised by the borough's Labour group.

Labour believes the move will cost the council more money in the long run with people opting not to recycle if they lose their recycling boxes.

And they claim that some people might be tempted to fly–tip if they can't afford to replace a broken wheelie bin.

However, the ruling Conservatives say that the proposal will tackle the injustice which sees taxpayers picking up the cost of replacement recycling boxes and wheelie bins for people who don't look after them.

Councillor Savage, Labour's finance spokesperson, said: "The Labour group believes there are a number of flaws to the scheme which could end up costing the council more money as people fail to recycle as their bins have blown away or fly–tip on corners because they can't afford to replace a broken wheelie bin.

"What the Tories are failing to recognise is that the more we recycle the less we pay in landfill tax.

"People are facing difficult choices and replacing their wheelie bin will not be at the top of their priority list.

"The grey bin's typical life span is five years so many residents are due a replacement shortly.

"This is a complicated policy which will cost the council a fortune in administration charges.

"Wheelie bins get damaged in the normal course of being emptied and we have excellent staff that do their best to inform residents when they have damaged bins. However, disputes will inevitably arise between how a bin has become damaged and any investigation into who's at fault will of course have increased administration costs."

Councillor Savage also believes that such a charge will lead to neighbourly disputes due to blue bins blowing away and being collected or placed in someone's garden by a passer–by.

She concluded: "This is an ill thought–out idea which will have many more costs to residents of West Lancs than the saving of £35,000 can justify."

Council leader, Ian Grant, responded: "The council are consulting on a number of proposals to close the budget gap which has been created by the austerity measures to try and balance the country's difficult financial position.

"The majority of homeowners look after their bins and boxes and will not be affected by these proposals.

"A number, however, do not and the cost is being borne by innocent and careful taxpayers. This proposal is aimed at tackling this injustice.

"Again our Labour colleagues seem to think that money grows on trees and that residents who have done nothing wrong should pick up the cost of others."

Call for better deal for rural communities

A REPORT by England's biggest rural partnership warns the Government that it must act to stop rural communities being given a raw deal.

The Rural Services Network, which represents more than 100 local authorities and more than 100 other rural organisations, made the call in response to a report by rural MPs.

Chief executive, Graham Biggs, who confirmed that West Lancashire was one of the areas affected, said: "We have long campaigned for a fairer deal for England's rural communities. This report drives home the added cost and challenges of delivering public services in rural areas where local authorities have to deliver more with less.

"Rural residents continue to pay more council tax for fewer services because of historic underfunding. We endorse the call for the Government to ensure that future settlements recognise the premium that exists in provision of services to rural areas. It's time for action."

Heather defies pain barrier for charity

Report by Danielle Thompson

A DISABLED woman who is recovering from cancer and has to use a wheelchair most days, battled through the pain barrier to complete a sponsored walk for charity.

Heather Hill, a volunteer at the Ormskirk branch of Brighter Future Mobility, took more than three hours to walk three miles along the seafront at Largs in Scotland, as she was forced to take a break every 10 minutes.

But she was determined to see it through to the end and her efforts, along with a less–strenuous sponsored bag–packing day at the local Morrison's supermarket, saw her raise nearly £1,300 to be divided between Brighter Future Mobility and Cancer Care.

Originally from Scotland but now living in Skelmersdale, Heather suffers from Fibromyalgia, a chronic condition that causes widespread muscular pain and extreme tiredness.

She was also diagnosed with cancer last year but is making a good recovery after undergoing intense chemotherapy and helps out as a volunteer at Brighter Future Mobility, a charity and local social enterprise set up to help people with disabilities.

The charity accepts donated mobility equipment and recycles it, training disabled young help, then puts it back into the disabled community at reasonable cost, making it affordable to people who would otherwise not be able to buy their own equipment.

Heather's husband Steve works at the Skelmersdale branch of Brighter Future Mobility as a technician.

She chose to fundraise for the two charities in recognition of all the support she received from them.

Heather Hill presents her cheque for £645 to Brighter Futures chairman, Peter Cousins cheered on by staff and volunteers.

Jan Winstanley from Brighter Future said: "Heather organised the event to take place along the Largs seafront in North Ayrshire, where she had her treatment, and a team of around 12 people took part with her, including staff from Brighter Future in Skelmersdale.

"The weather was glorious, which was fortunate, as the walk took her more than three hours to complete. Heather has great difficulty walking and this effort seriously tested her physical resources.

"She could manage 10 minutes on her feet at the most and then had to rest between exertions. But her determination carried her through and everyone is proud of what she achieved. She is still recuperating from the walk as she has damaged the tendons in her heels which could take a month to heal."

Heather, who hopes to make her fundraising an annual event, commented: "I was so happy to be able to complete this challenge and to be well enough to undertake it in the first place. I am glad to do something for both charities for supporting me when I needed it. I learned many lessons from this first event, which will help me plan and organise those in the future – hopefully they will be even bigger and better!"

Woman who 'invented' child jailed

The court heard that Harris, of Becks Fur, Thorpe Marriott, Norfolk, had received a caution in the past for falsely complaining that her then–partner had assaulted her.

Anthony O'Donoghue, defending, said that Harris had been pregnant at the time she lied about having a child but subsequently had a miscarriage.

"In stress she panics and does the wrong thing. She is a troubled young woman who has an inability to deal with problems", he said.

She was now living in Norfolk with a new partner and in full–time employment and "the building blocks of her life have become more stable", he added.

West Lancs crime down

FIGURES released by police for the year from April, 2012 to March 2013 3 show crime reduced by 10.5% in West Lancashire with the overall number of recorded offences down by 633 – although violent crime was up slightly.

The number of drugs offences went down by 46 (15.6%); thefts were down by 349 offences (15.9%); criminal damage and arson were down by 230 offences; and anti social behaviour incidents saw a reduction of 17.2%, or 945 fewer incidents.

£13m investment for Southport–Wigan line

Passengers travelling between Southport and Wigan can look forward to a smoother ride.

Report by Ollie Cowan

PASSENGERS travelling between Southport and Wigan will soon benefit from more reliable journeys after Network Rail confirmed details of a £13m investment to improve the track along the route.

Martin Frobisher, Network Rail area director, commented: "The investment we are making will provide a smoother ride and a more reliable service for passengers travelling between Southport and Wigan.

"The track here along this route is extremely old and was beginning to have an adverse affect on train punctuality.

"We'll be replacing over 11 miles of track which will allow more trains to run on time along this important route."

Work starts on site in the week commencing August 12 with the majority due to be completed by December.

Most of the work will take place overnight when trains are not running but there will be some impact on late evening services between Southport and Wigan, Monday to Thursday.

Lee Wasnidge, area director for Northern Rail, said : "Further investment in rail in the region is again turning the spotlight on the growing economy in the North of England.

"Although there will be some short–term disruption for our customers, we'd like to reassure them that this improvement package between Southport and Wigan will help us provide a comfortable and more reliable service for them on one of our busiest lines of route. We're delighted to be able to bring the benefits of a resolute working partnership to our customers."

Police issue warning about pension scam

Report by Danielle Thompson

POLICE in Lancashire are warning people not to fall foul of a pension scam which could see them losing more than half of their savings.

The scam – pension liberation fraud – takes the form of cold calling or unsolicited texts from a contact centre offering people the chance to cash in on their pensions before the normal private pension early retirement age of 55.

False or misleading claims of 'better rates of interest' or a cash incentive to transfer funds are made but the taxation implications of removing your funds from your existing pension provider are not explained.

In rare cases – such as terminal illness – it is possible to access funds before age 55 from your current pension scheme. But for the majority of people, promises of early cash will be bogus and are likely to result in serious tax consequences.

Tax charges of more than half the value of your pension could be made for taking an 'unauthorised payment' from your pension fund in this way.

In addition, fees deducted from your pension by the pension release companies for arranging the transfer are unlikely to ever be recovered. Such fees tend to be very high and could be 20 per cent or more of a person's pension savings.

Mark Aldridge from Lancashire Constabulary's Economic Crime Unit said: "We want as many people as possible to be aware of this scam.

"When these type of companies contact you they may not fully explain to you about the fees charged or the fact that by removing your funds before 55 there is a liability for tax.

"The person contacting you will often not be registered to give independent financial advice and your remaining funds may be transferred overseas outside the jurisdiction of UK regulatory bodies.

"If considering making alterations to your pension arrangements you should seek independent financial advice.

"Please look after your pension. Remember, at retirement age your pension pot could be worth £50,000 but if you cash it in too soon the Government may take 50 per cent of it back and the scammers take 25 per cent of it in 'administration fees'. This could result in you receiving £12,000 instead of £50,000."

Anyone who thinks they are the victim of Pension Liberation Fraud you should report it to Action Fraud by telephone on 0300 123 2040 or online at www www.actionfraud.police.uk

Edge Hill honours nurses union chief

Report by Danielle Thompson

THE leader of the country's largest nursing union has been awarded an honorary doctorate by Edge Hill University for his dedication to the profession.

Peter Carter, general secretary and chief executive of the Royal College of Nursing, was described as a compelling role model for nurses of all generations for giving a lifetime of service to nursing delivered with infectious enthusiasm, vigour and commitment to public service.

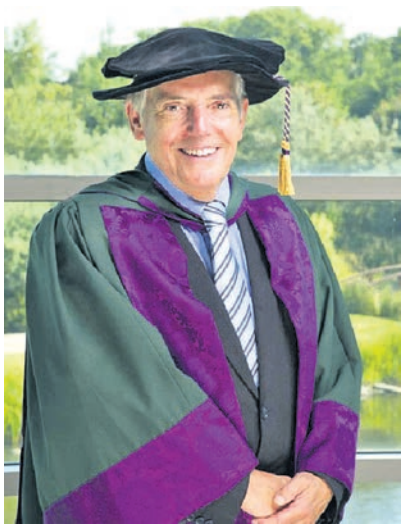
His honorary doctorate, given for his extensive knowledge and experience of the nursing profession and his close links with the university, was given in a ceremony at the Ormskirk campus.

Accepting his award, he said: "I would like to thank Edge Hill University for conferring this award on me, I really will cherish it.

"I've developed a relationship with the university over the past few years and it is an institution to be proud of. The education students receive here is second to none."

The RCN is the largest professional union of nursing staff in the world.

Peter began his career training to be a mental health nurse in St Albans more than 40 years ago, where he received his RGN. He has held a number of clinical and managerial posts in Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire and London and spent almost 12 years as the chief executive of the Central and North West London Mental Health NHS Trust, one of the largest mental health trusts in the UK, before moving to the RCN in 2007.



Dr Peter Carter at Edge Hill University Code NA

Highlighting the challenges that currently face nursing and the NHS, he said: "Despite all the pressures on and within the NHS, nursing and nurses still enjoy enormous respect from the public. Those graduating today from the university will still go on to have incredibly satisfying and rewarding careers in the profession."

Peter was awarded the OBE for services to the NHS in the 2006 New Year's Honours List. He also played a pivotal role in developing modern mental health services and in recognition of this received the President's Medal from the Royal College of Psychiatrists.

In 2010 he assumed the position of Honorary Colonel to 203 (Welsh) Field Hospital in Cardiff. The hospital deployed a formed unit on operations in 2008 to Afghanistan and many of its personnel have also seen active service on operations in the Balkans and Iraq. Peter is a keen supporter of military nursing and has hosted tri–service events.

He said: "I've visited nurses working in Afghanistan and Basra and witnessed first–hand the tremendous work they are doing caring for and treating our injured service personnel."

Offering advice to students embarking on a career in nursing, he said: "You won't be without daily stresses and strains, but my advice to you would be to develop good support mechanisms; rely on your colleagues and help each other.

"Never forget the privilege of the nurse/patient relationship. People are entrusting you with their care, which is both an honour and a huge responsibility."

Alan's charity leap

SALESMAN Alan Clough is taking to the sky to raise money for a charity that regularly takes to the skies to help the injured.

The 48–year–old father–of–three is all set to perform a sponsored parachute on Friday, August 2 in aid of the North West Air Ambulance.

Alan has been sponsored for the 15,000–foot jump over Cockerham Sands, near Lancaster, by his Tarleton–based employers, Bernard Dickinson TV and Audio Specialists.

And with the help of family and friends he is hoping to raise more than £1,000 for the charity.

Alan, from Southport, told the Champion: "I have never done a parachute jump before but it is something that I have always wanted to do, so I am really looking forward to it.

"I suppose it's a kind of mid–life thing and I couldn't afford a motorbike!

"But seriously, I have known people who have needed the help of the air ambulance crew in the past and I think that the charity is so important.

"The work that they do is amazing, rescuing people involved in anything from motorway crashes to mountain rescues."

Chance to have your say on borough council's budget–balancing plans

Views sought on savings and efficiencies package

Report by Henry James

RESIDENTS and organisations are being invited to give their views on West Lancs Borough Council's proposals to make savings, efficiencies and increases in income to balance the budget for 2014/15.

Provisional proposals for a package of measures totalling £191,000, plus the use of £474,000 from reserves, have been put forward by the council.

The next step is to gather views from residents, community groups, public sector organisations and local businesses before final decisions are made in October.

People and organisations can give their views through the council website at www.westlancs.gov.uk/yourviews . Comments can also be submitted by letter or email. The closing date is Wednesday, September 11.

The main proposals on which people's views are sought are:

- Introducing charges for replacement wheelie bins
- Increasing some fees and charges in line with inflation
- Budget streamlining in leisure and technical services, planning, housing and regeneration, and member services to make efficiency savings that do not impact on customers
- Restructuring of Internal Audit to reduce costs
- Reducing spending on food safety inspections in accordance with a reduction in Food Standards Agency (FSA) requirements, and reduced health promotion work
- Taking £474,000 from reserves.

Councillor David Westley, portfolio holder for finance, said: "In putting together this package of proposals we have tried to balance the need to save money and increase income with the wish to maintain services for residents and reduce any impact on them.

"Earlier this year we carried out a survey of residents and these proposals were informed by those survey results. Now we are going out to consultation again to seek views on these specific proposals and I hope local residents and organisations will take part."

How to stay safe online this summer

Report by Louisa Austin

Police issue Internet tips for children and parents

POLICE in Lancashire are offering tips to help keep children safe on line this summer.

Officers are hoping the advice will remind young people to put their personal safety first when connecting with others online while encouraging parents to make sure their children and teenagers are protected online.

Lynne Asbridge from Lancashire Constabulary's Public Protection Unit said: "The Internet is now a major part of most people's lives so it is important that we all know how to use it safely.

"Unfortunately, over recent years we have seen that the Internet has become an ever–increasing method by which offenders seek to meet, groom and then sexually exploit young people.

"While young people are more computer–literate and confident in using the Internet, they may not understand or acknowledge the necessity to protect themselves online. Therefore, we're asking parents, carers and teachers to work with young people to advise them about how to protect themselves while on the Internet, and youngsters can then return the favour by sharing their knowledge too."

Safer Internet tips for children and young people:

• Never give out personal details to online friends if you do not know them offline

• Remember people online may not be who they say they are – use caution when chatting to people who you do not already know

• Never arrange to meet up with strangers without an adult present who you trust

• Think carefully about the information and pictures you post on your profiles. Once published online, anyone can change or share these images of you

• Don't open files from people you do not know – they may contain viruses which could damage your computer

• If you feel uncomfortable about anything that happens online tell a trusted adult.

Safer Internet tips for adults:

• Make sure your firewall and anti–virus software is up to date

• Use different passwords for different sites

• Use secure and official sites (look for the padlock sign) when making purchases online

• Keep back–up copies and print–outs of online documents

• Do not disclose bank details as proof or age or identity

• Don't reveal personal details to people you meet, or who contact you, online.

Sweet taste of success

The Spot the Shop winners with the Gingerbread Lady Code NA

YOUNGSTERS enjoyed the sweet taste of success when they received their prizes for winning a Spot the Shop competition.

Organised by Ormskirk Community Partnership, the competition was designed to encourage families and children to visit the town and learn more about its history.

Pictures of gingerbread houses, coloured in by children from Ormskirk and Aughton primary schools, have been on display in 12 shops in Ormskirk town centre.

Children had to spot which shops were displaying the pictures and answer two questions about the town's history.

The first correct entry drawn out in each school entitled that child and an adult guest to a Gingerbread Tea Party in the Chapel Gallery.

During the event, the children also learned about Ormskirk's links with gingerbread, how the delicacy was made in the town and sold to passengers on the Preston to Liverpool stagecoach when it stopped at the Talbot Inn (now Iceland) in Aughton Street.

When the railway opened, the gingerbread sellers moved to Ormskirk railway station and sold to passengers there.

Ormskirk Community Partnership secretary, Irene Slack, said: "It was a very happy event and the Gingerbread Lady managed to attend."

The West Tower restaurant

IN our story last week regarding the closure of Masterchef Jay Tinker's restaurant in Aughton, it was stated that another restaurant in the area, run by Marco Pierre White at The West Tower, was still open. However, bosses at West Tower have asked us to clarify that the venue has no affiliation with Marco Pierre White.

Traffic options report issued

Councillor John Fillis with the unveiled plans Code NA

LANCASHIRE County Council's highways chiefs have published an independent report investigating road links between the M58 and Southport.

The report was produced by independent consultants in August 2012, and uses all of the available information to look at how traffic issues along the corridor from the M58 to Southport could be tackled.

It specifically evaluates two main options, namely the Ormskirk bypass scheme and an alternative strategy which brings together a package of smaller–scale options.

Speaking about the report, County Councillor John Fillis, cabinet member for highways and transport, said: "This report helps to inform the debate around traffic congestion along the A 570. It objectively considers major funding options like the Ormskirk bypass and the controversial road across Coronation Park in Ormskirk and I felt it was important to publish it in the interests of openness and transparency.

"Some of the options within the report have already been implemented, including a second entrance at Edge Hill University.

"The options evaluated within the report will form part of a much wider highways and transport masterplan for West Lancashire, which we will be consulting on in the autumn.

"This masterplan will set out options for major changes to highways, public transport and walking and cycling facilities to create the right conditions for economic growth and make sure predicted increases in traffic don't cause gridlock on the roads.

"Through a wide consultation we will ensure that proposals reflect the priorities of the people of West Lancashire."

Paul's angling for glory in prestigious event

Report by Danielle Thompson

AN angling enthusiast will be aiming to net super prizes, including £10,000 and a fabulous holiday, when he heads off to Italy to take part in the world's biggest carp fishing contest later this year.

Paul Smith from Ormskirk will be paired with pal Mike Madeley at the 15th World Carp Classic to be held at volcanic Lake Bolsena from Monday, September 30 to Saturday, October 5.

The competition, with prizes including £10,000, a Ferrari and a two–week holiday in South Africa, will feature 400 of the world's top anglers competing in 20 sections.

"I have been fishing all my life, since I was a child and my dad used to take me", said 34–year–old Paul who opened his own tackle shop last year.

He and Mike will be represent England as part of the same team as professional carp fishing legend, Frank Warwick and Mark Hunter, whom he met at the World Catfish Classic event on the River Ebro in Spain last year.

This is the second time he has been invited to the contest and he will be looking to make up for the disappointment of the 'one that got away' last year.

"I had only one take last year but unfortunately the fish found a snag almost as soon as I hooked it and cut straight through my line. That was a huge disappointment as it felt like a really good fish.

"There is a big element of luck in the peg you draw and the lake is over 166 square kilmometres. You could be miles away from the shoals of feeding fish. You pick a peg but you have the option to put that back and draw one more time if you don't fancy your initial peg. Now I have a lot more knowledge of the lake, I hope to draw a better peg this year and get among some of the lake's bigger residents!"

Categories at the event are split into overall winner, second and third place overall, team winners, second and third place teams, winners of the 20 sections, first fish, biggest overall fish and winners of the Gladiator games.

The overall winners receive a £10,000 cheque, as well as a selection of top–of–the–range fishing equipment and a two–week holiday for two in South Africa.

Edge Hill is region's safest university

Report by Danielle Thompson

Students on the campus at night Code NA

EDGE Hill University has been ranked the safest university in the North West for the second year running.

Statistics published by the independent Complete University Guide show that the Ormskirk site has the lowest crime rates and it has jumped up one place to fourth most crime–free university in England and Wales, making it one of the safest places to study.

Compiled from official police data, the ranking gives the clearest picture of local crime rates for 120 universities in England and Wales.

Vice–chancellor, Dr John Cater said: "Edge Hill University is delighted to be the safest university in the North West and to be placed in the top three in England.

"With 24/7 security and night wardens on site every evening, we take the issue of student safety and the minimising of student–relevant crime as a key priority, and we are very pleased to see the work of the university and the students' union being recognised in such a public way.

"The safety of our students is of paramount importance to us and we work closely with partners including the police to ensure that crime remains at an all–time low. We're always getting crime safety messages out to students and we also encourage them to respect the needs of the local community."

For the last two years the Edge Hill students' union has been working with Lancashire Constabulary on an initiative where teams of dedicated students patrol local roads during peak hours to ensure the areas around the campus are quiet and safe.

Bernard Kingston, founder of The Complete University Guide, said: "All prospective students should be able to assess the risks for individual institutions with much greater precision, and, in the absence of data for crimes affecting university students specifically, either on or off campuses, this survey offers the best available guide."

NHS belongs to the people –don't allow it to be sold off

I believe that this Tory–led government are attempting to fool the public that they are the champions of the people's NHS.

Don't be fooled. This government has created the conditions that if allowed to continue will implode the NHS.

The Government this week sold the state–owned NHS national plasma supplier to US private equity firm, Bain Capital – the company co–founded by Republican presidential candidate Mitt Romney – in a £230m deal.

In future, when you give blood an American company, owned by a man who is on record as being against free health care, will profit from the altruism of British citizens.

This amounts to little more than blood money. Where was the government's mandate for this?

This is just the beginning. The House of Lords recently had an emergency debate on the future of our NHS and how best to plug the £20 billion funding gap. It will come as no surprise that the majority of Tory lords all want to introduce a market economy and have patients pay for treatment. The same lords have interests in private health care companies. They are also on £300 a day.

Rest assured there is no limit to what and how far this Coalition will go in the drive to privatise our NHS.

Anyone out there who thinks privatisation would be a good thing, then think on this: in America 18,000 people die every year because they cannot afford health care. Imagine if you needed a kidney transplant or cancer treatment or your child was sick and you couldn't pay.

We never run out of money for wars or to fund the Royals or to give an 11 per cent pay rise to MPs. The money is there for our NHS, do not take what government say as gospel because they lie.

Our NHS may not be perfect but how about we hear about the great stories of lives saved. I am sure millions of us owe our lives to the NHS.

The NHS belongs to the people and we must not allow it to be sold off bit–by–bit to greedy American firms.

It can and must be fixed, but privatisation is not the answer. The human cost would be too much.

To quote Nye Bevan: 'The NHS will last as long as there are folks left with the faith to fight for it.'

This new homes plan won't create any long–term jobs

Re: 'Jobs boost in 600 new homes plan' (Champion, July 10)

How does this create long–term jobs in Skelmersdale? Answer it doesn't. It creates a few dozen builders jobs for a few months and most of those builders will probably live outside of Skem too.

It will, however generate, conservative estimate of £1,000 per annum for each home in council tax, £600,000 for the council.

So, the land has been allocated for housing development, that doesn't mean it must have houses built there. Land was allocated for a hospital in Skem, on the Stanley Estate, now there's a warehouse standing there. A hospital would have created hundreds of long–term jobs in Skem, yet now we have to travel to Southport for A&E.

If you must build 'new homes' in Skem, rebuild on the areas of town where houses are boarded up.

The land at Whalleys would be far better used 'given back to the people' of Skem as an extension of the Tawd Valley Country Park, which should be re–developed to make the most of one of the town's most valuable natural assets. How many towns would love to have a natural park landscape like that flowing from the very heart of the town?

Alternatively, the land could be used for the cemetery we so desperately need and has been in the pipeline since the 1990s.

First, give us the town centre we've so often been told is coming. This town centre development must have new homes as a vital feature to create a thriving heart to the town, with a proper high street where all ages are going to want to spend an evening out.

Give us our town–centre railway station we've been promised for so long, to bring people in to our town centre, and to allow those living here to commute more easily to jobs outside the town.

Give us a cemetery to bury our deceased loved ones.

Then, and only then, should the council give any thought to extending the boundaries of the town's urban landscape into valuable and needed parkland.

Phil Lyon, Skelmersdale

Support for fracking ignores the dangers

I see that the Government has decided to push for the development of 'fracking' using low–tax incentives.

Government spokesmen go on about the numerous advantages fracking is supposed to bring but little is said about the most important factor – shale gas is a fossil fuel which, when burned, produces CO2, just like coal and oil.

Also, the gas itself (methane) is just about the worst substance known for increasing global warming.

No one knows just how much methane will escape into the atmosphere during the fracking process or how much damage it will do to our water supplies.

One further matter. The support proposed by the Government for fracking will cut back on the development of solar, wind and tidal power which are our only real hopes for the future energy generation.

All the evidence shows that fracking will increase overall the speed with which global warming occurs.

The Government seems unable to see further than the end of its nose; short–termism rules as it so often does.

Not forgetting that there will be profits in fracking and we all know that the prospect of profits will always cause the neglect of other considerations.

Dr. R. Dawson, Farnborough Road, Birkdale

Beekeepers buzzing thanks to Asda

I am writing because I am 'buzzing' about the support received from the local Asda Skelmersdale store and staff to our association over the last 18 months.

Over this time Asda have been supporting local wildlife by providing damaged bags of sugar to the local beekeepers association, Ormskirk and Croston Beekeepers.

As this sugar is provided for free, it has released funds to enable the association (a registered charity) to support new and existing beekeepers by providing training courses.

The sugar goes to the apiary where the association is based at Fir Tree farm, St Helens, which is just five minutes past Up Holland railway station.

The decline of bees has been in the news recently and any support we can provide for them is vital.

By providing this sugar it allows local beekeepers to supplement colonies with a winter feed if they require it.

And, as a strong colony of honeybees can contain 30,000 bees and the apiary contains a number of colonies, there are a lot of mouths to feed.

In a sense Asda are supporting their own supply chain, by providing food for the pollinators of their suppliers.

Thank–you, Asda.

Biting back at loan sharks

Big Lottery grant will help fight against illegal money lending

West Lancs Mayor and Mayoress, Councillor Iain and Mrs Beverley Ashcroft with a £10,000 cheque from The Big Lottery fund which was presented to South West Lancs ICAN. With them are Angela Fishwick (left) of Unify, Jan Fitzsimmons, ICAN and money advisor Anthony Greenway. Code1060485

Report by Henry James

SOUTH West Lancashire Independent Community Advice Network (SWLICAN) is aiming to bite back against loan sharks.

They have received £10,000 from the Big Lottery Fund to help promote awareness of illegal money lending and they recently launched a Skelmersdale Against Loan Sharks Campaign.

SWLICAN is a driver of social inclusion and aims to provide accessible resources, training and social activities for individuals and local voluntary, community and faith organisations in West Lancashire.

Mayor of West Lancashire, Councillor Iain Ashcroft spoke at the launch event and encouraged people never to get involved with illegal money lending.

A spokesman for SWLICAN said: "SWLICAN would like to say a big thank–you to everyone who turned up for the launch event of Skelmersdale Against Loan Sharks.

"Organisations from across the West Lancs borough showed their support to the campaign.

"Mayor Iain Ashcroft's speech was particularly well received.

"Angela Fishwick from Unify Credit Union and Anthony Greenway, debt adviser from SWLICAN held the floor with a series of questions and answers.

"Illegal money lending in the Skelmersdale area has increased and working with the National Illegal Money Lending Team we hope to inform people that there are alternative forms of lending they can access.

"Working closely with Unify Credit Union we will be hosting a series of workshops, training events and public awareness to promote this."

The Big Lottery Fund is the largest distributor of National Lottery good causes funding across the UK.

MPs reveal fears for NHS in West Lancs

By Danielle Thompson

SHADOW Health Minister, Andrew Gwynne, visited West Lancashire to hear first–hand from residents and local organisations about how health and care services could be improved.

West Lancs Labour MP Rosie Cooper invited representatives from physical, mental and social health services to a round–table discussion at New Church House in Ormskirk to talk about integrating services at the heart of health and social care.

Andrew Gwynne spoke to the Champion about his fears for the future of the NHS in West Lancashire as he believes that current Government policy is leading towards the privatisation of the NHS.

He said: "The Government is taking us in the wrong direction, we are starting to see increasing fragmentation of services.

"Health and social services need to be integrated and have national guidelines – not different services for West Lancashire and for Southport. We need everyone to get the same treatment to stop the 'postcode lottery' creeping in.

"The Secretary of State should set out the 'what' for services and the local services should set out the 'how.'

"Rosie Cooper has concerns that there is a real danger if there is no role planned out for smaller hospitals and I also have concerns for Ormskirk and District General Hospital.

"The bigger hospitals suck in specialist services and we need small ones to have proper roles to ensure that there is a viable future for small hospitals.

"It is a national issue. People are living longer and have complex needs – and we want them to be able to enjoy their lives how they want to live them, not to be forced into care homes.

"There are three main areas of care – NHS emergency care, mental health care and adult social care.

"Local councils are struggling to provide adult social care after cuts and this in turn is putting pressure on hospitals, especially regarding care for the elderly.

"We need to stop fragmentation of care as we need more people cared for at home where possible, not in hospitals.

"People need to be cared for as a human being not an income stream and the services need to work together for all–round care.

"The meeting was really good, we spoke about some really constructive ideas, I am very grateful to Rosie Cooper for hosting it.

"We need liasing between health and social care services, a round–table discussion.

Rosie Cooper said: "I want to thank all the residents and the care organisations for taking the time to attend the round–table discussion on the future of our health and care services.

"I also really appreciate Andrew taking the time to come along and listen to residents' ideas, issues and concerns. There is a lot to think about after today's discussion."

CCTV has its uses but you can't beat the 'personal touch'

FUNNY how really quite small things can take the edge off your day.

Earlier this week, Tina (the dog) and I were travelling on the train to Aughton. Across the aisle from us were two young men (and I mean young men, not so–called young adults).

Well, in fact, I suppose it would be difficult to call them 'adults' either really in view of their behaviour.

You'll probably remember the furore a few years ago when a young woman was taken to court because she was travelling with her feet on the seats. She had the advantage of being pretty – and polite.

These two didn't just have their feet on the seats, they appeared to be treating an entire bay of seating as a kind of bedroom. Or more accurately the edge of a Roman sauna.

So why didn't I have the courage to say something?

Well, firstly they were indeed far larger (and a good deal younger) than I.

More importantly, I had Tina with me.

If I had challenged them and they'd politely apologised and sat in a more conventional manner, I'd have felt I'd done my civic duty.

If, on the other hand, they had been aggressive and raised their voices threateningly, I'm reasonably certain Tina would have decided these were indeed not nice people (a bit like skateboarders or squirrels) who posed a danger to me.

She would, in all probability, have shown some hostility towards them.

And if they had responded likewise, in all probability it would have been me in court and not them, and Tina in the doghouse.

Frankly, the risk wasn't worth it.

But we are told our trains are now equipped with CCTV, just to curb incidents like this.

If they are, it doesn't – obviously.

As you may remember, I am personally against the uncontrolled proliferation of CCTV spying devices. But, like so many things, it does have its uses.

It is fair enough within shops to fight shoplifting.

It may well help in certain outdoor areas where trouble can reasonably be expected.

And yes, of course, I'm glad it's there when it helps police catch a serious criminal.

But because something is done with the best intentions doesn't mean that it should become omnipresent.

And frankly it still doesn't wash with me that "if you have done nothing wrong, there's nothing to worry about."

I'm doing nothing wrong when I complete my morning ablutions at home – but I wouldn't want a camera recording the scene either.

Or why should me scrabbling after loose shopping if my bag burst in the city provide amusement for some civilian camera operative in his bunker somewhere?

On the other side of the coin, too many cameras probably mean that no–one is actually watching most of the screens most of the time – a bit like road speed cameras that are often inoperative.

Certainly they rarely if ever stop a crime being committed.

They didn't on the train and they don't in city centres either.

A camera may record a mugging or bag–snatch. It won't stop it happening – and it won't catch the offender nine times out of ten either.

Just like it didn't prevent these adult children from abusing the seats on my train.

I can't help feeling that CCTV, properly used in circumstances where it can actually make a difference at the time, is a good thing.

But for so–called low–level crime and anti–social behaviour, what you need is a person.

In the streets the physical presence of a copper or two really does make a difference.

In the local park, a uniformed official works wonders on vandalism.

And on the train, should the guard have chosen to do a walk through, those errant feet would have been off the furniture quick smart.

Got an interesting story to tell?

Local brew has the Commons touch

Burscough beer is toast of Parliament

Report by Louisa Austin

A POPULAR local brew has been tickling tastebuds in the corridors of power.

The thirst–quenching Mere Blonde beer, produced by the Burscough Brewing Company, was nominated by West Lancs MP Rosie Cooper to be one of the guest ales served at the Houses of Parliament.

And bewery partners, Andrew Brocken and Mike McCombe, visited Westminster to see how their star tipple was going down.

Following the visit, MP Rosie said: "I was delighted to welcome Andrew, Mike and their wives Carole and Julie to Parliament.

"Burscough Brewing Company epitomises the fantastic quality beers being produced in micro–breweries across the country and I believe it is important to celebrate and highlight their work, which is why I nominated their beer to be a guest ale in Parliament.

Honour

"Throughout the week people from all over the country pass through the Strangers Bar and I'm sure after a pint of Mere Blonde they'll be asking the landlord of their local pub for more of Burscough Brewing Company's beers."

Mike said: "We are still a relatively young brewery. When we started out less than three years ago we couldn't have imagined being in Parliament drinking one of our own beers.

West Lancs MP pictured with Burscough Brewing Company partners, Andrew Brocken and Mike McCombe; Code NA

"It was a real honour and privilege for us all involved at Burscough Brewing Company.

"People seem to really enjoy the beers we make. We aim to build on our relatively successful start and to continue making beers people can enjoy.

"We'd like to thank Rosie for her support for the brewery and for getting our beer served in Parliament.

"It is great to see our local MP championing local brewing and small local businesses."

Flower show to feature a–maze–ing display

...and readers can win one of 10 pairs of tickets for resort's big event

One of the labyrinths set up at Hesketh Park

AN a–maze–ing event is coming to this year's Southport Flower Show when The Atkinson joins up with Sefton Council's Creative Alternatives group to showcase a unique labyrinth.

The Creative Alternatives team have been working with artists, programme members and volunteers to install an ornate labyrinth pathway at the Southport Flower Show which will be open to the public throughout the four days of the August event (15 –18).

There will also be a host of celebrity guests attending the show, including Carol Vorderman who will officially declare the event open.

Creative Alternatives have long used the format of the labyrinth in its work and recently the team completed two permanent labyrinth pathways in Hesketh Park and Marian Gardens in Netherton.

Philip Wroe, The Atkinson's Community Partnerships and Health and Wellbeing manager said: "This is the start of a long and rewarding relationship with Southport Flower Show and The Atkinson.

"It is a fantastic event that draws thousands of people into the town from across the North West and beyond and we are excited to be able to be a part of it."

The Atkinson will also be at the flower show with an information stand, so visitors can find out what is up and coming for the autumn season.

• The Champion is giving away ten pairs of one day tickets to visit this year's Southport Flower Show. To be in with a chance of winning just tell us which number crunching celebrity is opening the show on August 15.

Closing date for entries is Wednesday, August 7, 2013.

Send your answer, along with a daytime contact number and your full address to Flower Show Competition, Champion Newspapers, Clare House, 166 Lord Street, Southport, PR9 0QA.

Usual competition rules apply. Editor's decision is final.

Row over council budget plans

Report by Henry James

THE Labour group on West Lancs Council have accused the ruling Conservatives of "throwing in the towel" over plans to use council reserves to bridge a funding gap in the borough's budget for 2014/15.

However, the Tories denied the claim and said they were the only party to steer residents through these difficult times.

Councillor Savage, Labour spokesperson for finance, said: "It's obvious the Tories have thrown in the towel, they are trying for a scorched earth policy just as they did at Lancashire County Council.

"They are planning to take reserves to fund their budget gap which is just not a viable method to make ends meet.

"Next year the amount of £474,000 which they haven't met this year will need to be found on top of the further cuts to local government.

"The Tories have shown that they don't agree with their own government's austerity measures which have cut too fast and too deep into local government. This latest review lets down the people of West Lancashire and is an admission of failure."

However, Councillor Owens, deputy leader of the borough council, responded: "Labour seem to be getting very excited about something anyone looking at the financial situation in the country already knows – that there are yet more difficult decisions ahead of us. It worries me that they seem so oblivious to this.

"Local Conservatives have steered the borough through the financial difficulties to date with well planned changes including a major construction programme to boost jobs and greater community involvement to secure many of our leisure buildings. At the same time, we have delivered the lowest increase in council tax over the last 12 years in the whole of Lancashire.

"Perhaps when Labour actually propose some policies and can keep a leader of their council group for more than five minutes they will deserve a hearing. Until then, all they offer is posturing and the threat of unplanned cuts to services or large council tax rises.

"Our residents, in these difficult times, want properly thought–out policies which only the Conservatives offer."

Early warning

THE school summer holidays may have only just started but parents are being urged to sort out children's transport arrangements for the new term in September – now.

Lancashire County Council are advising families about transport costs for pupils transferring to secondary school and request the application forms are returned as soon as possible to guarantee a child's new pass is received for the start of the new term.

If you think your child may be entitled to help with travel costs but haven't received an application form, contact the School Traveline on 01772 534 588.

Roger's top tip of the hat to Johnny Cash

JOHNNY Cash fans should clear their calendars for this time next year if Roger Dean returns,writes David Raven

The 67–year–old was at the Atkinson Theatre, Southport, for his Cash tribute show on Saturday, July 27, armed with his backing band The Lazy Boys and a trusty cup of fresh apple and rhubarb juice.

My better half and I were clearly the youngest in the half–full audience, as sadly when Johnny Cash died we were in our early teens, meaning we missed out on watching the legend live.

But this was our second Cash tribute in the resort in as many months, after watching a fair performance by Clive John in the Johnny Cash Roadshow at Southport Theatre.

In comparison, this week's show was certainly more of a taster as to how the Man in Black left his fans captivated and spellbound by his dulcet earthy tones, which Roger seems to have nailed in his 50–year showbiz career.

The experience wasn't perfect at the Atkinson – the armrests were akin to chop sticks and required careful strategic negotiation between you and your neighbour.

And several audience members were also heard berating staff for a lack of those miniature extortionately priced ice creams (the theatre bar in the £17million centre doesn't have a freezer).

However, they were the only negatives in what could only be described as a near–perfect gig in one of the North West's most intimate – and excellently air conditioned – venues.

Roger, who first covered Johnny Cash aged 14 on a BBC show, utilised this to create a campfire–like atmosphere, as he told his carefully constructed story with a Tennessee twang, a few feet from his listeners.

He never pulled any punches, covering Johnny from his darkest depths to his happiest moments – at times the audience were so engrossed you could hear a pin drop.

The classics were present, ranging from Folsom Prison Blues to Ring of Fire, but so was a mixture of less popular songs including Forty Shades of Green.

Star rating 9/10 – worth splashing the Cash to see Rogers

FORD'S Fiesta is one of my motoring favourites – and, judging by the stash of awards it's been showered with, quite a lot of you like it too.

So you might have missed that the clever EcoBoost version has just been crowned Women's World Car of the Year.

I still can't quite get my head around the idea of a motoring award judged entirely by women.

Surely, what makes it excellent engenders it to either gender?

In the same way that a MOWO Awards would provoke no end of controversy in the music world, a Men's Car of the Year would get every member of the Germaine Greer fan club on the organisers' case.

But as far as I can tell, WWCOTY is pointless because the ladies like the Fiesta for exactly the same reasons as everybody else does.

The women on the panel are all experienced motoring hacks and raved about the Fiesta because it crams fun, feistiness, eco–consciousness, safety and sex appeal into a small, value–for–money package – pretty much exactly the same reasons I love the current Fiesta.

Women's World Car of the Year though, I reckon, reinforces by its very existence the urban myth that women don't know as much about cars as men do.

There are plenty of women who I'll happily ask for an opinion on for a matter of motoring, particularly because there's quite a few of them who actually know aspects of the subject better than I do!

If it were a case that all motoring awards panels were stuffy, gentlemen's club affairs which hadn't moved out of the 1950s and genuinely thought women's opinions weren't worth considering, than I'd understand.

But I grew up in Girl Power where Vicki Butler–Henderson's views on cars meant as much as Jeremy Clarkson's.

Female opinions on motoring matter too much for them to be sidelined into their own gender–specific awards.

Ford's Fiesta is just a brilliant little car, full stop. You don't have to be a woman to know that

It's a stroll for Burscough

BURSCOUGH CC got back to winning ways in the Liverpool Competition Second Division when they beat third–placed Old Xaverians at School Lane.

After electing to bat the visitors were dismissed for 119, with Chris Andrews (4–37) and skipper Lee Berrie (3–16) both in fine form with the ball.

In reply, the hosts strolled to 120–4 to seal victory, with Brendan Domigan and Berrie both scoring 36.

In the First Division Ainsdale tied with Northop Hall, declaring on 202–8 then having the hosts on 168–9, before a dramatic last–wicket stand took the scores level.

Formby at home to Liverpool were bowled out for 232 in 60.1 overs, the visitors replying with 214–8 as the game was drawn.

Ormskirk settle for draw after mid–order collapse

ORMSKIRK'S hopes of securing runners–up spot in the Liverpool & District Cricket Competition Premier Division behind runaway leaders Northern stalled when they had to settle for a draw at Leigh on Saturday.

After deciding to bat first the hosts declared on 236–7 after 58 overs, with skipper Matty McKiernan top–scoring with an undefeated 70, while Martyn Farrell spun his way to 5–65 with the ball.

In reply, Matty Glayzer (77) and Andy Baybutt (65) got the visitors off to a great start with an opening stand of 146.

However, after a mid–order collapse and with time running out they had to shut up shop after 47 overs on 208–8, with Gary Knight unbeaten on 30.

Maghull also had to settle for a draw at Wallasey.

The hosts elected to bat first and declared after 51.5 overs on 257–9, with Neil Cross (70) and Craig Kaye (58*) top–scoring, whilst Ryan Swiers (4–69) and Chris Tonge (3–52) were the pick of the bowling attack.

In reply, the visitors tried in vain to reach their target but fell just short on 226–8, with Sabah Ghaus (74*), Greg Gillespie (37), Tonge (30) and Sairaj Patel (28) all in good touch.

High–flying Northern, meanwhile, now top the division by 76 points after beating Fleetwood Hesketh by 98 runs at Sea Cop.

Electing to bat Northern had to thank Lancashire's Paul Horton who top–scored with 84 on debut and Tom Bailey who hit 37 late on as they struggled to 161 all out, on a pitch offering something for most bowlers with Tommy Wareing spinning his way to an impressive 6–48.

In reply, Fleetwood were then dismissed for just 63 in 25.4 overs, with in–form duo Tom Sephton (6–27) and Stephen Cole (4–31) bowling unchanged and doing all the damage with the ball.

At Trafalgar Road Hightown beat Southport & Birkdale for the second time this season, notching a comprehensive eight–wicket win.

After electing to bat the bat first the hosts were dismissed for 146, with Scott Lees (36) and Mark Fletcher top–scoring, whilst Ian Sutcliffe (4–41) and Andy Warhurst (4–44) were the pick of the bowlers.

In reply, unbeaten knocks from D'Arcy Short (81 off 61 balls) and Sutcliffe (51 off 41 balls) saw Hightown home as they cruised to 149–2 in 20.1 overs.

This weekend's local LDCC fixtures (Sat 1pm): Hightown v Leigh, Maghull v Lytham, New Brighton v S&B, Northern v Highfield, Ormskirk v Fleetwood Hesketh, Ainsdale v Newton le Willows, Wigan v Formby, Wavertree v Burscough. (Sun 1pm): S&B v Fleetwood Hesketh.

Rehan spins Skem to nail–biting win

SKEM Cricket Club 1st XI grabbed a thrilling one–wicket win at Caldy, thanks in no small part to a man–of–the–match performance by leg spinner Mohammed Rehan who destroyed the hosts' battling line–up with figures of 9–78 from 22 overs.

The home side took first knock and there was little sign of the devastation to come as opener Haroon Khan reached his half–century.

However, when Rehan and fellow spinner Matthew Fenney were handed the ball the game took a sudden turn.

Khan was dismissed for 50 and from thereon in Caldy struggled.

Matt Marks made a steady 43 and Joe Poste scored 20, but the remaining batsmen had no answer to Rehan, seven of them failing to reach double figures as Caldy were dismissed for 189 in the 52nd over. Andy Potter was unbeaten on 27.

In reply Skem were shaken when Mitchell Clarke was dismissed for one but skipper Barry Leadbetter came in to join Ben Maddocks and the pair began to claw their side back into the game.

They put on 45 runs before Leadbetter was dismissed for 25 and a topsy–turvy game swung back in Caldy's favour when both Hasnain Abbas and Mohammed Rehan went cheaply.

Ben Maddocks then grafted for 22 before being caught by Brown but with Kyle Till being joined at the wicket by the in–form Lewis Clarke, promoted from the 2nd XI after a string of good scores, they slowly dragged Skem back into the game, taking the total to 106 when they were both dismissed.

Luke Manley (45)and Matthew Wright (31 not out) then looked set to carry Skelmersdale to the much–needed win only for two more wickets to fall with the scores level on 189 and just one wicket left.

Youngster Wright stayed calm though to despatch the ball to the boundary for the winning runs as Skem reached 192–9 with just two balls remaining.

On Saturday Skem face an important home game against Spring View (1pm start) hoping for a win that would leapfrog them into the top four.

'Roll on August 17' – Lawson

By Neil Leatherbarrow

United boss says prospects are looking good for new season

IN his programme notes for the game against a Manchester United XI last night, Skelmersdale United manager Tommy Lawson took a very bright outlook on the new season, due to start properly on August 17 with a trip down to the 'Black Country' where they will play Rushall Olympic.

Talking about the new players that have been added to the already successful squad and the friendlies that Skem have played so far, he said: "We have now had a look at the new players that have joined the club and I think that collectively they show a great deal of promise."

Emphasising the importance of the pre–season and of introducing the 'right' players to the squad, he added: "I think that one of the main reasons we won the title last season was because we had a strong squad in depth, which meant we could rotate the team and rest players with knocks knowing that those coming into the team were of the same quality as the players left out.

"We all know we have lost some good players over the summer but I am delighted with the standard of players we have been able to attract to replace them.

"There are some real characters among them who I am already enjoying working with."

And he finished on a positive note, saying: "Things are looking good for the new season, roll on August 17th!"

Skelmersdale United's fixture schedule begins with five games in August – away to Rushall Olympic (Sat. 17th), Marine (Mon. 26th) and Droylsden (Sat. 31st) and at home to Nantwich Town (Tues. 20th) and Ashton United (Sat. 24th).

The three away games are against teams that were on the edge of the play–offs all last season, including the derby on Bank Holiday Monday at Marine.

Skem have only two more pre–season games scheduled before the 'big day.'

They travel to Padiham on Saturday, August 3, then entertain Stockport County on Saturday, August 10.

Season tickets are selling very well for the new season and those wishing to join 'the rush' can buy them during normal office hours by phoning 01695 722123. Please note, that is the ground number but you are advised to phone first because although the ground is manned most of the day, it's best to make sure someone is there when you arrive.
